Dame Muriel Spark, (February 1, 1918 â€“ April 13, 2006) was the greatest Scottish novelist of modern times; however, she ironically departed Scotland as a teenager and returned thereafter only for brief visits. Yet this distance may well have helped her as a novelist of international acclaim as her Scottish roots emanate throughout her writing. Spark's works embody her Catholicism. Muriel Spark is a novelist, a poet and a short-story writer. She was born in Edinburgh and educated at James Gillespie's School for Girls and Heriot-Watt College. She is of Jewish-Italian descent, and a long-time resident in Rome, Italy. Her novels are wryly satirical commentaries on modern life observed in various locales, coloured by her Roman Catholic faith (she converted to Catholicism in 1954). Spark travelled to South Africa and spent several years in Zimbabwe, and married S.O. Spark in 1938.
