Contents & Quick Navigation.

Consider a healthy food formulated for your dog’s size. Some dogs do better on a diet formulated specifically for their size. Large or giant breed dogs may benefit from dog food made with glucosamine, which supports healthy joints, and small or toy breed dogs may find it easier to dig into food with small, bite-sized kibble. Think about your dog’s activity level. A dog who works or competes is going to burn more calories than a dog whose only exercise is an occasional walk. If your dog is an athlete, he may benefit from a nutrient-dense dog food designed for athletic dogs. On the other hand, eating your own dog food, also called dogfooding, occurs when an organization uses its own product. This can be a way for an organization to test its products in real-world usage. Hence dogfooding can act as quality control, and eventually a kind of testimonial advertising. Once in the market, dogfooding demonstrates confidence in the developers’ own products.
