Mentoring is essentially about helping people to develop more effectively. It is a relationship designed to build confidence and support the mentee so they are able to take control of their own development and work. Mentoring is not the same as training, teaching or coaching, and a mentor doesn’t need to be a qualified trainer or an expert in the role the mentee carries out. The potential of the person they are mentoring includes:

- Learning and developing yourself from the process
- Satisfaction at the success of the mentee
- Recognition of your mentoring skills by the Department and the University
- Motivation from self development and responsibility
- Increased self confidence and motivation
- Support and challenge in formulating a clear sense of personal direction.
